Mayfly Nymphs from Northwestern Florida

ROBERT F. SCHNEIDER

SINCE publication of The Mayflies of Florida (Berner, 1950), 13 species of Ephemeroptera have been added to the fauna of the northwestern part of the state. This paper gives the occurrence of species now known from each of the nine major rivers, from the Perdido on the western border of the state, eastward to the Escambia, Blackwater, Yellow, Shoal, Choctawhatchee, Holmes, Chipola, and Apalachicola, respectively. The records of Berner (1950, 1955, 1958) are included, as well as new distributional data obtained by the writer during investigation of water pollution for the Florida State Board of Health from 1960-1965, and differentiated in the list by asterisks. The habitat in which the nymphs were collected is also given.
